THE UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE LIBRARIES in 1963/64 continued its accelerated pace in all phases of library operation. One of the most satisfying of the year's activities was the use of $420,048 for books, periodicals, and binding, a total of $112,655 more than was spent in 1962/63. The increase in book funds was gratifying to both librarians and faculty, since it was a substantial indication of library support on the UT campus. In the amount spent for books, periodicals, and binding, Tennessee rose in the statistics of the Association of Research Libraries (64 academic institutions) from 38th to 34th, a respectable gain in such company.

The Library Development Program, initiated to help bring UT to library adequacy, contributed $38,684 to the book fund, which is approximately $15,000 more than has been collected by this movement in any one period since its beginning in 1959. Dr. John C. Hodges, the coordinator of Library Development, has been and is doing a dedicated and effective job, and we are proud and happy that he is turning his energy and interest to our benefit. Thanks to his efforts, there were seven Patrons (those giving $1,000 or more) listed in the fourth Library Development Report. Among them were Hamilton National Bank, White Stores, Inc., Mr. and Mrs. John E. Lutz II, Romance Language Department, Alumni Association, Better English Fund, and an anonymous Patron. Several new endowments were set up, one of them, by the University Board of Trustees, quite properly in honor of John C. Hodges. The outstanding gift of materials was the Kefauver Papers, described in the section on Special Collections.

SERVICE IN THE KNOXVILLE LIBRARIES

Circulation of books and library materials rose for the eighth consecutive time, with the greatest increases noted in branch libraries and in Special Collections. The Biology Library gained 38.4 per cent; Business, 15.5 per cent; Engineering, 25.4 per cent; and Science, 49.2 per cent. Special Collections increased 53.9 per cent over last year.

Interlibrary loans to other libraries increased 14.5 per cent. The Main Library loan desk sent out 17.3 per cent, or 589 more volumes than in 1962/63. Except for Business Administration and Science, the branches showed substantial increases in volumes lent.

Borrowing from other libraries increased 26.7 per cent for Main and all the branches. The Reference desk at Main borrowed 35.8 per cent more than in 1962/63. This steady, year-by-year increase in interlibrary borrowing by this library is a matter which should be watched carefully, since it indicates that we do not have at hand all the books which our patrons want and need. Interlibrary loan, with its procedures to follow and necessary records to be kept, is a full-time activity in both the Circulation Department where books are lent, and in Reference where they are borrowed.

ORDER AND PROCESSING

The Order Department became the Acquisition Department on July 1, 1963. Miss Branch's title was changed to Acquisition Librarian, and Jack Thompson became Order Librarian. Miss Branch and various faculty members and representatives of departments studied and worked on the preparation of an acquisition policy for the University.

The Processing Department, working with an unfilled new position for the full year and an unfilled junior catalog position for part of the year, added 5,209 more volumes than in 1962/63. Cataloging is one of the library procedures requiring highly skilled workers, and a cataloging vacancy is difficult to fill. All the Processing staff is to be congratulated on the fact that we have no cataloging arrears such as plague many libraries. There is no backlog of uncataloged collections, and the day-by-day acquisitions are kept well under control.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS

One of the items listed in the minutes of a meeting of the Subcommittee on Special Documents is "Kefauver, Estes. Papers, books, and mementoes. 59,000 lbs." This is succinct mention of one of the University of Tennessee's greatest acquisitions in the field of special collections. The late Senator Kefauver's papers, from his offices in Washington and Chattanooga, include letters, speeches, copies of the bills he wrote, copies of congressional hearings he conducted, books, and mementoes. The Kefauver Papers will be invaluable to historians, political scientists, and other scholars through the years. The gift was made by Mrs. Kefauver through the Estes Kefauver Memorial Foundation.

Other important additions to the Special Collections Library include the following:

Blanton, Margaret Gray, collector. Tennessee Johnson's Eliza. ca. 330 pieces. Notes, clippings, photographs, photostats, transcripts, correspondence and mementoes collected in anticipation of a biography of Eliza McCardle Johnson. Gift of Mrs. Blanton.

Cobb, William. Plea of debt against Archer Evans, Jonesborough, Nov. 3, 1795. 1 l. printed form filled in by hand. Signed by J. A. Sevier, Clerk.

Fitzgerald, N. E. Letters, 1943-1947, to and from UT students in the armed forces. ca. 300 pieces. part typewritten, part handwritten. Letters exchanged by the Dean of the College of Education with students in service. Gift of Dean Fitzgerald.

Mather, Cotton. Letter, dated 16 June 1692, to George Corvin. 1 l. handwritten. Gift of Mrs. Louise M. McCleary.

Miller, Mrs. Helen (Topping) 1884-1960. Scrapbooks, 1916-1957. 10 v. Include correspondence, clippings of reviews and periodical stories, typescripts, and mementoes of the prolific Tennessee writer. Gift of F. M. Hill.

Miller, Malcolm. Knoxville drama critic and impresario. Theater collection 1925-1963. ca. 2500 pieces: correspondence, programs, autographed photographs, reviews, scripts, and memorabilia. Gift of Malcolm Miller estate.

Park, James. An inventory of the real and personal estate of James Park, deceased, taken on the 3d day of February, 1854. 138 p. handwritten. 31 cm. Records of the Park estate, Knoxville, showing assets, receipts, payments and disposition, 1854-1877.

Pope, James. Former senator from Idaho and TVA Director. Papers, 1939-51. ca. 8,000 pieces. Official and personal papers pertaining mainly to TVA. Gift of Senator Pope.

The Special Collections Library, containing 10,174 books and 406,275 manuscripts, is being used more and more each year. Since it opened in September, 1959, with 1,980 volumes and 108,000 manuscripts, its circulation has risen from 510 to almost 3,500. Circulation of Special Collections material increased 53.9 per cent over the 1962/63 figures. The 29 tons of Kefauver material have been placed in a special locked section of the library stacks outside the Special Collections Library. It seems inevitable that expansion for Special Collections must be seriously considered very soon now. The Kefauver Memorial Foundation has discussed plans for a Kefauver wing in conjunction with the Special Collections Library, but in view of the great interest shown in Special Collections, some shelving relief should be given in the interim before the Kefauver Wing becomes a reality.

These important source materials should have some priority in the matter of space released when Undergraduate Library moves into separate quarters.

THE NEED FOR SPACE

As indicated in last year's report, the undergraduate library stacks should be filled to working capacity (40,000 volumes) before the end of next year. We added 4,634 books, bringing the UGL collection to 36,307 volumes. Special Collections Library is overflowing its quarters. Use of the reading rooms and lounges is, as has been the case, extensive.

The Engineering Library has no storage space and is fast using up the space for books. In fact, if all the books charged out were returned at one time, they would have to be stacked on the floor.

The Agriculture Library needs expansion.

The new quarters of the Biology Library contain twice as much space as the old; however, the strong graduate programs now in progress mean increased book allotments and increased graduate enrollment.

Science Library is generally crowded. There is no work space as such for the staff, so a much-needed reading table sometimes has to be used.

Increased space in both Business Administration and Education branch libraries has been proposed; and even though most of the Biology books have been removed, the Law Library is still lending stack storage space for materials from Engineering and Agriculture. The bookshelves in the Law Library are needed for Law books, and we hope soon that this will be the case.

The steadily increasing enrollment is taxing library seating capacity. The fall quarter 1963 enrollment in Knoxville was 11,823. We can seat 16.3 per cent, or .2 per cent less than we could last year. This situation is undesirable, particularly in view of the vast need for student study space.

STAFF ACTIVITIES

Don Jett, Science Librarian; Tom Rogero, Engineering Librarian; and Stewart Garrett, Cataloger, are the members of the Director's "Youth Committee," which was formed to investigate the ramifications of automation. They have attended several meetings on automation, information storage and retrieval, data processing, etc., at various association meetings and institutes.

The Director taught two courses (Library Buildings; Library Administration) during the summer session, School of Library Service, Columbia University. The National Book Committee asked him to serve as its judge in the 1964 Library Buildings Award Program, co-sponsored by NBC, the American Library Association, and The American Institute of Architects. He contributed two articles to Southeastern Librarian and, at the request of the editors, book reviews to College and Research Libraries and Library Journal. He served the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools on the LSU and SMU Visitation Teams and continued as chairman of the Committee on Library. He again represented ARL on the ASA Z85 Committee and continued on several ALA, ACRL, and LAD committees. Schools asking his advice on library buildings and services included Western Kentucky State College, Berea College, Appalachian State Teachers College, Miami University in Ohio, Stanford University, Eastern Montana State College, Radford College, University of Tampa, Wake Forest College, Eastern Kentucky State College, Johnson C. Smith College, and Scarritt College for Christian Workers.

G. M. Abel, Administrative Assistant, attended library dedications at Notre Dame and Auburn Universities. He continued as manager of The Tennessee Librarian.

John H. Dobson, Special Collections Librarian, remained as editor of The Tennessee Librarian.

The Mary E. Baker Library Scholarship Fund, given by the staff each year to a nonprofessional staff member who wishes to go to library school, was offered to Patricia Nichols, Assistant in the Reference Department.

Library Lecture #16, The Public Relations Activities of the University Librarian, was delivered by James T. Babb, Librarian of Yale University.
