Penny White is professor of law and director of the College of Law's Center for Advocacy and Dispute Resolution. A gifted teacher, White has led efforts to establish new experiential learning courses. She led significant improvements to the curriculum for the center, which is now recognized as one of the most extensive and innovative in the country. A former associate justice of the Tennessee Supreme Court and an extremely influential legal scholar, White is one of the college's most prominent faculty and sought-after scholars and speakers.

 The Jefferson Prize, made possible by an anonymous donor, honors the principles of our nation's third president. Thomas Jefferson not only was proud of having written the Declaration of Independence, but also of having founded the University of Virginia. He dedicated himself to the pursuit of freedom and knowledge.

The Jefferson prize is awarded to tenured or tenure-track faculty who have demonstrated excellence in research and creative activity or who have made other significant achievements that might not be recognized in the usual university reward system.
