

UT Extension Programs

UT Extension provides a gateway to the University of Tennessee as the outreach unit of the Institute of Agriculture. With an office in every county, UT Extension delivers educational programs and research-based information to citizens throughout the state of Tennessee. We work with farmers, families, youth, and communities, to improve people's lives by addressing problems and issues at the local, state, and national levels. For more information about UT Extension programs, visit your local UT Extension office or our website at <http://utextension.tennessee.edu>.

Finances and Divorce:

An Online Course for Divorcing Parents

Family and Consumer Sciences

Are you stressed over financial issues as you go through divorce?

Have you wondered ...

- Shouldn't child support cover all of my child's living expenses?
- Should we keep the house until our child is through school to provide stability?
- Why are collectors hounding me to collect debts that belong to my former spouse?
- How can I minimize the amount of taxes I pay so that I can provide more for my children?

If you are concerned about these questions and others, the Finances and Divorce online course is for you.

Managing Finances Through Divorce and Beyond

There are both emotional and financial costs to divorce. In the long run, those who suffer most both emotionally and financially from your divorce may be your children.

As a parent, you want to provide the best for your children, but it is hard to make good decisions in such a stressful time as a divorce. This course is designed to help you take control of your finances to provide a stable environment for your children and yourself.

You will be able to download worksheets, access online resources, and complete online checklists as you go through the course.

Getting control of your personal finances can help you provide a stable and secure environment for your children

What is included in this course?

Through this course you will learn how to develop a child-centered financial plan by:

- Understanding the relationship between finances and divorce.
- Creating child-centered financial goals.
- Applying strategies that will help you accomplish your goals.
- Linking to resources that make financial planning easier.
