Distribution of all scholarship awards is handled through the Compliance Office in Athletics. This starts with the initial offer of the scholarship and proceeds through to the distribution of checks to the student athletes throughout the academic year. The values shown for the individual components represent the maximum allowed for that particular item.

Following a discussion of the above information, Joe Scogin, Director of the Thornton Center, introduced Lindsey Plummer, an education specialist in the Center. Lindsey discussed her responsibilities with the student athletes. A major component of her work is dealing with every incoming student athlete. Each is tested for reading and math skills. They are placed into the appropriate courses based on these assessments. In addition, every incoming student is tested for potential learning disabilities. In those instances where necessary she works out appointments with the appropriate clinical psychologist to have a professional determination of these initial assessments. These fees are paid by the athletics department. If needed, appointments with Disabilities Services are scheduled for the student athletes. The challenges associated with that were discussed. Many students who face these challenges are reluctant to avail themselves of these services. This is perhaps even more so with the student athlete because of greater personal visibility. Methods of working with Disability Services to reduce student concern were discussed.
