Fall 2014

War Stories Fall 2014

Center for the Study of War & Society

Follow this and additional works at: https://trace.tennessee.edu/utk_warstories

Recommended Citation
Center for the Study of War & Society, "War Stories Fall 2014" (2014). War Stories Newsletters. https://trace.tennessee.edu/utk_warstories/10

This Newsletter is brought to you for free and open access by the Center for the Study of War and Society at TRACE: Tennessee Research and Creative Exchange. It has been accepted for inclusion in War Stories Newsletters by an authorized administrator of TRACE: Tennessee Research and Creative Exchange. For more information, please contact trace@utk.edu.
Knoxville welcomed some of America’s finest heroes as it hosted the 2014 Medal of Honor Convention, September 10-13. Since 1861, the year of its inception during the Civil War, 3,468 total Medals have been awarded. The Medal of Honor is America’s highest military award for bravery and all of East Tennessee was proud to have such a large gathering of recipients visit our area. Many of the recipients toured the area, visited local schools, participated in book signings and town halls. CSWS attended the town hall event held at the Y-12 National Security Complex in Oak Ridge where the honored speakers included Herschel “Woody” Williams (World War II), Ron Rossier (Korean War), and Wesley Fox (Vietnam). The Center also played a role by participating in WBIR-TV’s “Profiles of Courage” series, one minute spots that featured each East Tennessee Medal of Honor recipient from World War I to Vietnam. Tennessee’s ties to the Medal of Honor run deep. During the Civil War there were 101 MOH actions in the state, with five of those taking place in Knoxville. One of the most famous East Tennessee recipients was Alvin C. York, from Fentress County, who was famously portrayed in the 1941 film Sergeant York. But there are 13 other recipients from East Tennessee that are without question equally deserving of being remembered and honored. Their names and era of service appear in the following list.
America’s Finest Heroes (continued)

WORLD WAR I

Calvin J. Ward was awarded more total medals than Alvin York for his service. Ward never received the public accolades that other WWI heroes did. He experienced great difficulty in readjusting after the war and even re-enlisted for a time. He eventually took his own life in 1967.

James E. “Buck” Karnes received his medal for action taken together with Calvin Ward. Their Medal of Honor citations are identical. Karnes returned home and served as a Knoxville Police Officer before retiring to California. The Buck Karnes Bridge in Knoxville is named in his honor.

Milo L. Lemert was born in Hamblen County as the tenth of his parents’ eleven children. He attended Kansas State University and returned to settle in Crossville, Tennessee. He married his wife, Nellie, not long before he departed for overseas with the 30th “Old Hickory” Division. Sadly, he was killed in action on their one-year anniversary.

Edward R. Talley was also a member of the 30th “Old Hickory” Division and, like Ward, was a Hamblen County native. After witnessing several of his fellow soldiers killed, Talley single-handedly stormed a machine gun nest, armed only with a rifle, and killed or wounded at least six enemy soldiers.

WORLD WAR II

Alexander Bonnyman, Jr. was a thirty-three-year-old man with a family, deferred from service, but he chose to enlist. During a savage battle in the Pacific, he led an assault on the enemy. A combat photographer caught him on film kneeling at the top of the bomb-proof shelter, firing into the enemy and waving forward other marines before he fell, mortally wounded. This film makes Bonnyman’s Medal of Honor action one of the few ever recorded.

Ray Duke was a combat veteran of WWII and stationed in Japan when the Korean War began. He had trained South Korean units and when taken prisoner by the North Koreans, Duke refused to give up any information. He was tortured and starved to death in the POW camp. He is the only Tennessee Medal of Honor recipient to also be awarded the South Korean Medal of Honor.

Charles H. Coolidge is Tennessee’s only living recipient today. Coolidge spent 128 days on the front line and received his medal for action in France that took place over a four-day period, during which time he displayed superior leadership and bravery, confronting German soldiers and tanks in close proximity at great risk to his own life.

Paul B. Huff was the first paratrooper to receive the Medal of Honor and chose to have it presented by General Mark Clark, surrounded by comrades. Later, a public ceremony with President Roosevelt was held. Huff remained in the army and rose to the rank of Command Sgt. Major of the 3rd Army, and even traveled to Vietnam during the Vietnam War. He was one of the few MOH recipients to never receive the Purple Heart.

Elbert L. Kinser and Alexander Bonnyman were the only two Marines from East Tennessee to receive the Medal of Honor. Kinser’s mother was presented the medal by General Clifton Cates, a fellow Tennessean. Camp Kinser, a Marine Corps base in Okinawa, Japan, was named in Kinser’s honor.

Troy A. McGill is the only Medal of Honor recipient buried in Knoxville’s National Cemetery. Interstate 40 from the Louden County line to North Carolina is named the Troy A. McGill Memorial Interstate Highway. This great hero ordered the other soldiers back while he covered their withdrawal until he was killed. The next day they found his body surrounded by more than 100 dead enemy soldiers.

Charles L. McGaha joined the Army in 1937 and was a survivor of Pearl Harbor long before the action in 1945 that earned him the Medal of Honor. He also received a battlefield commission to second lieutenant. He reached the rank of major before retiring from the Army. He was later tragically killed during a robbery attempt in his hometown of Newport, Tennessee.

KOREAN WAR

Mitchell W. Stout volunteered for a second tour in Vietnam because he knew the younger soldiers needed experienced veterans to support them through the war. To honor his sacrifice and valor there are local memorials at Virtue Cemetery and the Interstate 75 Bridge over the Tennessee River. At the home of Air Defense Artillery at Fort Bliss, Texas the base gym is named for Stout.

VIETNAM WAR

Please visit the East Tennessee Veterans Memorial website to read each citation: etvma.org/the-memorial/medal-of-honor/
IN MEMORIAM
BERNARD LEVENSON
World War II
U.S. Army Air Corps
China-Burma-India Theater

Join the Friends of the Center
Please select a level of support:

____ Honor Guard ($25–$49)
____ Fort Sanders ($50–$99)
____ Memphis Belle ($100–$249)
____ USS Tennessee ($250–$499)
____ The 30th “Old Hickory Division” ($500–$999)
____ Friends of Charles W. Johnson ($1,000–$4,999)
____ Founders Circle ($5,000+)
____ Eternal Flame (estate gift)

My gift is in honor of ________________________________

Name ________________________________

Address ________________________________
City ___________________ State ______ Zip ______

Telephone ________________________________
E-mail ________________________________

Celebrating a Record of Graduate Student Successes
This fall, two graduate students active at the center won prestigious research awards. Former graduate assistant Will Rall was awarded a Richard M. Hunt Fellowship for the Study of German Politics, Society, and Culture to support his dissertation research. Will’s project is “Nazi Charity: Giving, Emotion, and Morality in the Third Reich.” The grant is administered by the American Council on Germany. Our current graduate assistant Mike McConnell was awarded a dissertation-writing award from the Harry Frank Guggenheim Foundation. This award is for Mike’s dissertation, entitled “Home to the Reich: The Nazi Occupation of Europe’s Influence on Life Inside Germany, 1941-1945.” These successes continue an amazing winning streak of eleven major research awards won by graduate students active with the center.

DIRECTOR’S NOTE
Our new year sees the Center participating in ongoing commemoration of the World War I Centennial. The center is represented on the State of Tennessee Great War Commission which coordinates activities in Tennessee from 2014-2018, and on the Academic Advisory Council of the National World War I Memorial and Museum in Kansas City, Missouri. In September, we participated in the German Studies Association conference in Kansas City which had a special focus on World War I, and had multiple presentations of papers by graduate students active with the Center. I presented a lecture on World War I in Eastern Europe at Southern Methodist University in Dallas in October and will give a keynote address at the Great War Conference at Georgia Gwinnett College on Nov. 8. In spring 2015, we will host a major lecture on campus on the war in the trenches.

Going much further back in time, in April 2015 the Center is partnering with the MARCO Institute for Medieval and Renaissance studies at UT to host a symposium called “Cry Havoc: War, Diplomacy, and Conspiracy in the Middle Ages and Renaissance.” The conference will link these ancient issues of spying, intelligence-gathering, and conflict to their relevance in the present day.

—Vejas Gabriel Liulevicius, Director

IN MEMORIAM
BERNARD LEVENSON
World War II
U.S. Army Air Corps
China-Burma-India Theater

Please return your form and gift to:
Center for the Study of War & Society
217 Hodgkins Library
The University of Tennessee
Knoxville, TN 37996-4008
csws.utk.edu

We are a non-profit organization with 501(c)(3) tax-exempt status. All gifts are tax deductible.

2014-10-17 CWS newsletter Fall14.indd 3
10/20/2014 2:09:48 PM
Eternal Flame (Estate Gifts)
Veda M. Bateman
Susan Blair
John B. and Marsha McKinney

Founders Circle
Fay B. Bailey
Joan Johnson (Mrs. Charles W. Johnson)
Katherine D. Moore

Friends of Charles W. Johnson
Bobby & Melinda Suzanne Booker
Betsey Creekmore—in memory of Hop Bailey, Jr.
Michael & Linda S. Davidson
Juanita M. Kirkland

30th "Old Hickory" Division
Robert R. Campbell—in memory of Hop Bailey, Jr.

USS Tennessee
Norma Cox Cook

Memphis Belle
Charles T. Bradley
Samuel A. Shipman

Honor Guard
Bill & Barbara Arant—in memory of Hop Bailey, Jr.
Thomas W. Bond
Susanne E. Eddowes
Elinor "Lin" Folk
William J. Kelch

The University of Tennessee is an EEO/AA/Title VI/Title IX/Section 504/ADA/ADA institution in the provision of its education and employment programs and services. A project of the Center for the Study of War and Society.