SO, WHAT'S IN THIS ISSUE OF SCOOP?

"In Perfect Harmony - Celebrating its second annual Diversity and Inclusion Week, CCI reminds students of the quiet power of diversity and resounds that if we all sing the same note, there will be no song.

Students occupy nearly every seat in the College of Communications Auditorium, and all eyes and ears tuned to Nadeem Siddiq, a member of the Muslim Community of Knoxville's Dawah (Outreach) Committee, as he calmly shares his thoughts about cultural differences. Siddiq's soft-spoken voice resonates with worldly wisdom, as if he's seen it all. "In the moment of failure, be aware of the weaknesses of the heart... Your awareness of that moment will help you transcend it. Turn tolerance into something greater by understanding choices that you make," he says." + read

The College of Communication and Information's Center for Information and Communication Studies (CICS) recently received three new grants – two from the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS) and one from the Sloan Foundation.
