On page 192 of the 2005-2006 Undergraduate Catalog, Grading and Continuation Policies, revise #6, to

6. For undergraduate nursing students, 75% is the passing average grade in all nursing courses. To pass any clinical course, a student must achieve a minimum of 75% across all examinations in the course, regardless of any other grades earned in other components of the course. If a student fails to achieve the minimum 75% average on course examinations, the final course grade will be either D (67-74) or F (under 67). The following grading scale applies to all undergraduate nursing courses:

A = 92-100

B+ = 88-91

B = 83-87

C+ = 79-82

GENERAL EDUCATION COMMITTEE REPORT

The committee approved adding the Natural Sciences designation to Geology 205.

Geology

205 Age of the Dinosaurs (3) Survey of the major groups of dinosaurs: skeletal structure, ecology, environments, evolutionary history, and extinction. May not be applied toward the geology major.

Effective date: Fall 2006

Rationale for Approval:

The Natural Science committee recommended unanimously GEO 205 "Age of the Dinosaurs" for acceptance as a General Education course within the Natural Science category because: a) The course covers a large part of two scientific disciplines (Geology and Biology), b) the material will be presented in such a manner that fundamental principles and aspects of science will be taught to the students, and c) the scope of the course seem to be consistent with several other courses accepted for General Education.

Other Business:

Subcommittees are reviewing course proposals and will submit recommendations at the November 15 meeting of the General Education committee. The next deadline for course proposals is February 1, 2006.

General Education Petition Update

 - September (118 received)
 - October 1-13 (56 received)
- As of October 13

UNDERGRADUATE COUNCIL GOALS (2005-2006)

The Undergraduate Council shall concern itself with standards for admission, retention, and graduation; with curricular matters in the undergraduate programs; with the development of interdisciplinary programs; with the approval of new programs and any other matters of educational policy pertaining to undergraduate programs. In addition, the Council will examine study abroad policies applicable to undergraduate students and serve as a liaison between faculty and campus offices that coordinate services designed to reach international education goals. It will monitor policies for screening applicants for various awards and monitor policies regarding receiving credit from programs abroad. (Excerpt from the Faculty Senate Bylaws)

For 2005-2006, the Undergraduate Council will focus on the following objectives:

1. Strengthen and promote interdisciplinary programs
2. Support efforts to develop and implement the Quality Enhancement Plan related to International and Intercultural Awareness
3. Support efforts of the Diversity Council to include diversity in curricular offerings
4. Support efforts of the Student Success Center related to student learning, academic success, and academic review

University of Tennessee, Knoxville
Undergraduate Council
Office of Chair

Responsibilities of the Chair. The Chair will preside over the Undergraduate Council meetings. If the chair is unable to attend a meeting of the Council, the chair will appoint an elected member of the Council to chair the meeting. In cooperation with the Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs, the chairs of the Undergraduate Council standing committees, and the office of the Catalog and Curriculum Coordinator, the Chair shall prepare an agenda for such meetings. In matters before Council that require a vote, the Chair shall cast the deciding vote in the event there is a tie. In consultation with the Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs, the chairs of the Undergraduate Council standing committees, and the membership, the Chair shall make assignments to all standing committees of Council. He or she may also solicit Council members to serve on ad-hoc committees as needed. The Chair shall serve as an ex-officio (non-voting) member of all standing committees of Council including the curriculum committee, academic policy committee, advising committee, appeals committee, and general education committee. As Undergraduate Council exists as a standing committee of the Faculty Senate, the Chair also has Faculty Senate responsibilities as outlined in the Faculty Senate Bylaws (see Article III, Section 3.O. Undergraduate Council).

Election of Chair. The Faculty Senate Bylaws (Article III, Section 3.O) specify that the Chair of Undergraduate Council shall be a faculty member from Undergraduate Council, elected to a two-year term by voting members of Council. In the year prior to the beginning of the two-year term, the election of Chair is to take place at the last meeting of the spring semester. Any current faculty member of Council is eligible to be a candidate for Chair. The nominating committee will be responsible for identifying and soliciting candidates and will report on its results at the next to the last meeting of the spring semester. Nominations may also be submitted from the floor at that time. A summary of the candidate's credentials will be provided to Undergraduate Council members to aid in their decision. Election of the Chair will take place by secret ballot. The Chair-Elect will take on the responsibilities of Chair on August 1, following his or her election. The Chair-Elect is automatically granted an extension of his or her appointment to Undergraduate Council for a period of up to three years so as to include membership on Council through one year past his or her term as Chair. Since the Chair serves the entire university and not one constituency, the Chair does not count as part of a school or college's apportionment of representatives to Council.

RE: Honors Programs

Major changes are underway in our various UT Honors programs. The purpose of this memo is to alert you to those changes and to ask for your suggestions and assistance. I would like to have a conversation about these changes at upcoming meetings of our various groups or you may email me any responses.

Over the past several months an ad hoc committee of those most directly involved with the several UT honors programs (Tom Broadhead, Associate Director of Admissions and former Director of University Honors; Don Cox, Associate Dean in A&S with responsibility for curricular matters; Chris Craig, Professor of Classics and Director of College Scholars; Ruth Darling, Director of the Student Success Center with responsibility for the AAA honors program; Mark Luprecht, Director, University Honors; Nancy McGlasson, Director of Admissions and with overall responsibility for recruitment of Honors programs) has discussed ways to expand opportunities for the increased number of UT undergraduates who are well qualified for and interested in honors and ways to use the opportunities that we have to recruit even more high ability students.

Even as these discussions have been taking place we have also had personnel changes. Mark Luprecht has resigned his position as Director of University Honors and will join the English Department faculty. We are initiating a national search for a new Director of University Honors. Scott Furtwengler, until recently the Associate Director of University Honors at Southern Illinois University, will soon join us as an Associate Director of University Honors. He comes to us as a result of a national search. For the next several months, Kathryn Salzer, currently a lecturer in the Department of History, will join Scott to serve as a fellow Associate Director on a limited duration appointment. Together they will manage the program until a new director is appointed. The duties of Michelle Blackwell, long-time Assistant Director, are being redefined.

The major programmatic change in the University Honors program will be the recruitment of faculty mentors who will be matched by academic area with incoming Honors students. Mentors will be asked to meet at least twice each semester with each student whom they mentor. Mentors will not be required to do academic advising for freshmen and sophomore students, but they may do so if they wish. (Advising of lower division honors students will be done through the Academic Advising Centers. The University Honors Program will no longer assume advising responsibilities.) The most important role of mentors will be to introduce students to their areas of study and intellectual interests. The hope is that students will be interested in continuing work in the mentor's academic areas and that mentors will eventually direct the honors thesis. Students will in all likelihood complete University Honors requirements and departmental honors requirements in their major, or they may be part of a college honors program. The staff of the University Honors program will coordinate assignment of mentors and will facilitate transfer to other mentors if student interests shift.

At the college level the hope is to encourage colleges to develop their own honors programs. The only collegiate program that currently exists is the College Scholars program in Arts & Sciences. This is a program in which University Honors students are allowed to develop their own cross-disciplinary programs within the confines of the overall requirements of Arts & Sciences. Many of the College Scholars students are also University Honors students. The same pattern of overlap with University Honors could prevail for students in other colleges.

At the departmental level there is growing interest in developing honors programs and this is to be encouraged. The ad hoc honors committee is proposing University-wide guidelines to be used in this development. These guidelines would include the requirement that at least 10% (12 hours on a 120-hour degree) of courses presented for graduation should be honors courses. Some or all of these could be honors-by-contract courses. A senior thesis would be required for all departmental honors programs and students should maintain a cumulative gpa of at least 3.25.
