Choosing the right law school is no simple matter. I’m pleased that you are considering the University of Tennessee College of Law. We have much to offer here. In both the 1995 and 1996 U.S. News & World Report surveys of America’s law schools, the University of Tennessee ranked among the top 50 in the nation. In 1996, the American College of Trial Lawyers honored the College of Law with the Emil Gumpert Award for Excellence in Teaching Trial Advocacy. A UT law degree has a positive impact when you interview for that first legal job. The most recent statistics indicate that more than 90 percent of our graduates find jobs within nine months of graduation. As a state-supported institution, the UT College of Law offers all the amenities of a comprehensive university at a reasonable cost. The passage rate for UT graduates who take the Tennessee bar examination has been consistently above the state average for all graduates. Students benefit from a dedicated and concerned faculty that excels not only in the classroom but also in the scholarly world of publication and professional service. Many of our faculty bring to the classroom years of experience working for large and small law firms, the courts, government agencies, and public interest groups. They have much to share with our students—and they do so eagerly, both in and out of class. We have civil and criminal clinical programs in which students actually interview clients, research cases, and argue before the courts. A relatively new mediation program provides training in an alternate form of dispute resolution that many students find to be a highly positive experience. Two innovative new centers, one for advocacy and the other for entrepreneurial law, have been created to prepare our graduates for the specific legal challenges they will face in the future. And to house all of this, a new $21.5 million law center is being constructed right in the heart of the campus. The new building will connect with the existing George C. Taylor Law Center to provide a state-of-the-art facility for legal education.

The University of Tennessee College of Law has been educating lawyers for more than 100 years. We do it well, but we are constantly seeking better ways to help students graduate as competent, ethical attorneys. Our mission is to train lawyers who possess the skills and knowledge to become leaders in the profession and in their communities—and we take our responsibility very seriously. We have created within the law school community an environment where students, faculty, and staff can engage with mutual respect in lively intellectual interchange. We have deliberately fostered a diverse community committed to fair and humane treatment for all. This is a special place—and a special time in the history of the UT College of Law. If you have questions after reading this Applicant Guide, call the Office of Admissions. Better yet, come and visit the campus. Talk with our students, faculty, and administrators. We have an on-campus Student Host program so you can experience firsthand what the UT College of Law is like day-to-day. Look at us closely. I think you’ll like what you see.
Most sound decisions in life are made after comparing the pros and cons of the available choices. Here are some factors you may want to consider about the University of Tennessee College of Law as you weigh your options:

Solid reputation. The University of Tennessee College of Law is highly regarded by lawyers and judges who have the opportunity to evaluate the strength of the institution, based primarily on first-hand experience with its graduates. If you plan to practice in Tennessee, you’re likely to find College of Law graduates wherever you consider locating. But our scope is not limited to Tennessee, or even to the South: over 6,000 alumni are practicing in virtually every state and in 10 foreign countries.

Breadth of the curriculum and strength of the faculty. The University of Tennessee College of Law offers a strong curriculum of fundamental and specialized courses and committed faculty members with the expertise to make the curriculum come to life in the classroom and in the context of intensive clinical and moot court programs.

An exciting new physical facility. The 1997 entering class will be among the first to gain the benefits of the new $21.5 million law center, slated to open during the 1997 spring semester.

An environment for living and learning. The College of Law is conveniently located on Cumberland Avenue in the heart of the University of Tennessee, Knoxville campus, less than two miles from the courts and law offices in downtown Knoxville. The University community of over 25,000 students affords the amenities one would expect from a comprehensive research and teaching university.

Just as important, particularly on a beautiful spring or fall weekend, is the proximity to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. Drive 45 minutes from campus and you are in a world where other priorities in life can be considered as you hike the trails and enjoy the beauty of the Smokies.

These are some of the items that immediately come to mind when considering the Tennessee Advantage. The information that follows will help you see additional advantages that apply directly to you as a candidate for law school.

JOSEPH G. COOK
Williford Gragg Professor of Law
A.B., 1961, and J.D., 1964,
University of Alabama
LL.M., 1965, Yale University

Several years ago, trumpeter and band leader Dizzy Gillespie, while on tour, lost his travelers checks. He went to the American Express office but, difficult as it is to believe, the agent did not recognize him. Nor could Gillespie provide him with any identification, because his wallet was missing, too.

‘Call my lawyer,’ he said, and the agent did that.

‘How can I tell that this man is Dizzy Gillespie?’ he said.

After a brief pause, the lawyer responded, ‘Ask him what comes after Ooh-bop-shabam?’

The agent relayed the question, and Gillespie shot back, ‘Afroogle-mop,’ which was repeated into the phone.

‘That’s Dizzy,’ said the lawyer. And Gillespie got his traveler’s checks.

There are two points to this story. First, of the many people Gillespie might have called in his moment of need, he chose his lawyer. He did so because he had a problem, and lawyers solve problems. Second, his lawyer learned how to solve this problem in law school, or so I would like to believe.

It is unlikely that he learned it in one of the ‘skills’ courses, which in his law school days probably didn’t exist.

He could have learned it in jurisprudence, but he might have absorbed it from a professor or two along the way who conveyed the notion that human beings are more than litigants. They rely on their lawyers not only for their protection but also in the pursuit of their hopes and dreams.

Defenders of the case method tout it as the most effective means for teaching analytical skills. I have no quarrel with this thesis, but it serves another purpose, less frequently noted. Every case is a mini-drama, a slice of life. Cases are fact-specific disputes between unique parties. Without the variegated texture of human experience, the law would be sterile indeed.

Gillespie’s attorney could solve his problem because he knew his client as something more than a depository of Hohfeldian duties and rights. He came up with the solution that would solve his problem, even though it would have worked for no one else. In the process, he also protected the interests of American Express. And he even contributed to the larger good. For, to paraphrase philosopher John Rawls, when Dizzy was happy, the least among us were better off.

Legal education is more about life than it is about law. At its best, it embraces the arts, the sciences, and the humanities. And along the way, it admonishes its followers to stop and hear the trumpet.”
The Law School Community

The phrase "law school community" refers to a way of thinking, planning, and communicating that emphasizes partnerships among students, faculty, administration, and staff. It is as simple as doing things together: Professor Carol Parker gives upper-division law students experience as teaching assistants in her legal writing classes. Students work with professors as research assistants. Faculty members work with students individually to assist them in projects and activities that spotlight individual interests. The Moot Court Program draws in virtually every faculty member in some way. Faculty members spend countless hours helping students hone their skills so teams may represent the College of Law in interschool competition. Students, faculty, and staff serve together on major committees at the College of Law.

And it's not all serious. Members of the law school community enjoy having fun together with such activities as town meetings, open forums, ice cream socials, committee meetings over pizza, banquets to honor student achievements, and parties to celebrate the beginning and the end of the year. The College ends each academic year with a celebration featuring an auction to raise money for the Student Bar Association's student emergency loan fund. The activities usually include a faculty dunking booth. Each year's graduating class appoints a development council which plans a class project to leave a lasting gift to the College.

As in any type of community, involvement is the key to success, and plenty of room for involvement exists in the UT College of Law community.

STUDENTS

The UT College of Law will provide you with a unique environment in which to live and learn. Tennessee has a relatively small law school; entering classes are kept to 150-160 students, allowing for a favorable student/faculty ratio. The entire student body at any given time is fewer than 500 students.

As a state-supported institution, the College of Law has a primary responsibility to offer adequate opportunities for the study of law to Tennessee residents. Approximately 80 percent of each entering class will be residents of Tennessee. Many will have attended undergraduate institutions in other states.

Diversity does not stop with hometowns and undergraduate schools. However, although many members of the entering class are pursuing a law degree directly from undergraduate school, a good number of law students each year have other advanced degrees and have had careers in fields as diverse as engineering, teaching, journalism, and business. The Class of 1998 is indicative of the typical gender mix in recent years—approximately 52 percent male and 48 percent female. Approximately 13 percent of the 1995 entering class were members of minority groups.

LIVING IN KNOXVILLE

The UT College of Law is located on the main campus of the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, a comprehensive university with a student body of more than 25,000. Knoxville is the largest city in East Tennessee and the third largest in the state, with a population of over 170,000 within a metropolitan area of nearly half a million people. On any home football game Saturday in the fall, Neyland Stadium is comparable to the sixth largest city in Tennessee, accommodating nearly 100,000 Vol fans. Knoxville has the natural advantage of being located in the foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains, making hiking, biking, golf, and fishing popular and easily accessible activities. UT and the City of Knoxville have recognized programs in the performing arts which enrich the lives of the people on campus and in the surrounding communities. Both Atlanta and Nashville, Tennessee's capital, are easy three-hour drives from Knoxville.
STUDENT PROGRAMS

Students at the College of Law can choose from a variety of student programs, activities, publications, and organizations to enhance their classroom experience.

MOOT COURT PROGRAM

The Moot Court Board plays a vital role in the College of Law’s appellate and trial advocacy programs. It is composed of second- and third-year students who have demonstrated excellence in advocacy through various inter- and intraschool competitions. The Board develops legal problems for the two intraschool competitions held each year—the Advocates’ Prize and the Jenkins Competition—and is involved in the selection of students who will represent the University of Tennessee in interschool competitions. The Board is committed to increasing the level of interest, participation, and excellence in advocacy at the University of Tennessee College of Law.

The University of Tennessee has sponsored teams that have consistently been successful in several categories of moot court competition. Our National Moot Court Team has won the national championship twice, and the team advanced to the national quarterfinals in 1995. The National Trial Team won the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers Trial Competition in 1991. A College of Law team member was named Best Oralist among 85 participants in the preliminary rounds of the 1995 Evidence National Moot Court competition in New York City, and the team was honored with the third-best brief overall in the competition, defeating three other competitors before bowing to the eventual champion in the quarterfinals of the tournament.

The 1993 Jerome Prince Evidence team was unbeaten, taking first place in the national competition. The Environmental Law Moot Court team placed second in the National Environmental Competition in 1992 and 1993. Our Jessup International, Frederick Douglass, Stetson National Tax, and Wagner Labor Law teams have excelled in regional and national competitions as well.

The Advocates’ Prize Moot Court Competition was established through the generosity of a good friend of the College of Law. This is an intraschool competition in written and oral appellate advocacy. Trial skills are similarly recognized in the College’s Ray H. Jenkins Trial Competition. The final rounds of both competitions, held each spring, are judged by panels of distinguished jurists from benches such as the United States Supreme Court, the United States Court of Appeals and District Courts, and the Supreme Court of Tennessee.

These opportunities for the development of advocacy skills at UT would not be possible without the generous support of our alumni and friends. Several endowments specifically support moot court activities, including the Tom and Elizabeth Fox Endowment, the George D. Montgomery Advocacy Fund, and the John K. Morgan Trial Advocacy Fund. When endowed, the Professors Joseph G. Cook and John L. Sobieski, Jr. Fund will also provide support for the National Moot Court team.

LECTURE AND VISITOR SERIES

The College regularly seeks to provide enrichment opportunities for students through special programs.

The Alumni Distinguished Lecture in Jurisprudence is made possible through contributions to the College’s endowment fund by alumni and other friends of the University of Tennessee College of Law. Recent lecturers have included Milner S. Ball, Caldwell Professor of Constitutional Law at the University of Georgia, and Judge Alex Kozinski of the Ninth Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals.
After I left military service, I knew I wanted to pursue a J.D./M.B.A. degree. I collected information from business schools and law schools around the country while tracking their rankings in several sources. UT's College of Law and College of Business Administration consistently made noticeable advancements in the national rankings. Both schools also received recognition in 'placement success after graduation' and the 'biggest bang for the buck' categories. All the numbers seemed to be in place. But I didn't discover what I consider to be one of the school's biggest selling points until my first semester of my first year. I had heard all the stories about 'cut-throat' competition in law schools and came to UT mentally prepared for the worst. But I've met some of the most dedicated, focused people I have ever known here in the College of Law. No one ever hesitates when I ask a fellow student for help or advice. I really like the atmosphere here among the students. That's something the numbers don't reveal.'

The Charles Henderson Miller Lecture in Professional Responsibility was established at the College of Law in 1978 to honor Professor Emeritus Charles Miller, who founded the University of Tennessee Legal Clinic in 1947 and served as its director until his retirement in 1975. Professor Thomas Ehrlich, former Dean of the Stanford Law School and then President of the National Legal Services Corporation, delivered the first lecture in the series. The 1996 lecturer was Professor Linda S. Greene of the University of Wisconsin Law School.

The Robert L. Taylor Memorial Lecture was established in 1993 by the College of Law, The Hamilton Burnett American Inn of Court, The Knoxville Bar Association, and the Knoxville Motor Company, in honor of the late Federal District Judge Robert L. Taylor of Knoxville. Former Chief Justice Warren Earl Burger, a long-time friend and admirer of Judge Taylor, was the first speaker in the series. In 1994, former United States Attorney General and Federal Court of Appeals Judge Griffin Bell delivered the lecture. The 1995 guest lecturer was former U.S. Ambassador Sol M. Linowitz, author of the book The Betrayed Profession—Lawyering at the End of the Twentieth Century. Proceeds from the series are used to help support students who are interested in pursuing careers in public interest law.

The Tennessee Law Review is a law journal published quarterly by the students of the College of Law. Members of the Review are selected from the second-year class on the basis of writing ability and scholarship. Third-year members may be chosen to serve on the editorial board or may participate as staff members.

The Tennessee Law Review offers an excellent opportunity to those students with an aptitude for legal research and writing at a professional level. The Review edits and publishes articles on important legal topics written by legal scholars and practitioners throughout the country. Members of the Review also have the opportunity to write notes and comments to be considered for publication.

STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION

The UT Student Bar Association is the representative voice of College of Law students. Elected officers serve on the Dean's Advisory Council, and members organize activities for the benefit of the law school community. All students may join the SBA and participate in its activities.

The SBA supervises the locker-rental program and operates the SBA Book Exchange, through which law students may buy and sell used law books at discounted prices. The SBA also administers the Alan Novak Memorial Emergency Loan Fund, which provides short-term, interest-free loans to law students in need.

Throughout the year the SBA sponsors special events such as speakers, films, town meetings, and social functions. The SBA also develops a student directory for its members and sponsors a student advisor program for all first-year students. In addition, the SBA coordinates a broad range of activities each spring, including an auction for the emergency loan fund and the "Law Follies" featuring entertainment by talented students and faculty.

STUDENT SERVICES

ORIENTATION FOR ENTERING STUDENTS

The College of Law has traditionally provided a comprehensive Orientation and Introduction to the Study of Law during the first week of the fall semester, referred to as The Introductory Period. The objectives and aims of the College of Law, as well as techniques for adapting study habits to the law curriculum, are discussed as part of The Introductory Period.

FACULTY ADVISOR

The College of Law assigns each law student a Faculty Advisor, with whom he or she will meet during The Introductory Period. Students are encouraged to consult early and often with their faculty advisor about any issues of concern, from the transition to the law school environment, to course selection, to choice of a career.

STUDENT ADVISOR

First-year students are also paired with a Student Advisor during The Introductory Period. Student Advisors help new students understand the structure of the law school, provide advice on how to get things done, and offer practical tips for starting good study habits early.

NON-ACADEMIC COUNSELING

The facilities and services of the University Student Counseling Service for psychological counseling and the University’s specialized services for improving reading skills and study habits are available to College of Law students.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT PROGRAM

Academic support activities are provided for first-year students. During the fall semester, the faculty coordinates a series of lectures focusing on law school survival skills. Topics covered in these sessions may include time and stress management, synthesis of law materials, note taking, outlining, and examination skills.

During the spring semester, any first-year student whose first semester grade point average falls below 2.0 or who can demonstrate exceptional need for academic support is eligible to participate in small group tutorials in Contracts, Torts, and Civil Procedure. Tutorial sessions focus both on legal doctrine and skills.

DISABLED STUDENT SERVICES

The College of Law works with the University’s Office of Disability Services to eliminate the barriers individuals with disabilities encounter and to work with them to achieve and maintain individual autonomy. Admitted students with disabilities are encouraged to contact Associate Dean for Student Affairs Mary Jo Hoover, UT College of Law, 201 Aconda Court, Knoxville, TN 37996-4070, so that the individual’s need for support services can be evaluated and accommodated in a timely manner. See page 24 of this Applicant Guide for additional information.

W. TUCKER CARRINGTON, ’97
Chattanooga, Tennessee
University of Virginia, B.A., English, 1988
Hollins College, M.A., English, 1990

I spent the summer after my first year of law school based in New Orleans and traveling throughout the deep South working on behalf of prisoners whose constitutional rights were jeopardized by inhumane prison and jail conditions. I had little previous experience with inmates, even less with their legal issues. But their concerns force us to ask some difficult questions of ourselves, of what we believe the law should be. So when I came back to school in the fall, I continued my interests by working with Professor Jerry Black in UT’s Legal Clinic on a semester-long independent project that he and I tailored together. That aspect of UT—a faculty not only knowledgeable about and committed to active representation of under-represented people but also willing to share and encourage it in their students—is what I’ve enjoyed the most. And I am not alone; many of my friends have enjoyed similar experiences with other professors.”
The quality of an institution of higher learning can best be evaluated by the quality of its faculty. As you choose a law school, consider the multi-dimensional roles that faculty play in influencing the quality of the education you will receive.

In The Classroom, In the Hallways, After Class, And In Their Offices. The teaching and learning experience does not stop after a professor’s teaching notebook is closed for the day. The College of Law is fortunate to have a group of professors who not only are knowledgeable and experienced, but who are good, caring teachers who make themselves available outside the classroom. Professor Robert Lloyd, who teaches courses in commercial law and business transactions, is a good example. Professor Lloyd was named one of four Outstanding Teachers in the UT system by the University of Tennessee National Alumni Association in 1996. When Professor Neil Cohen was asked by the Tennessee Supreme Court to draft an amendment to the Tennessee Rules of Evidence to cover propensity evidence in sex abuse and domestic violence cases, he involved seven student volunteers from his evidence class in researching and drafting this important work.

In Service. A commitment to service—to the profession, the University, and the community—keeps our faculty in contact with legal problems and issues that reach far beyond the College of Law. Professor Gary Anderson was recognized by the Tennessee Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers for his work on the Indigent Defense Funding Crisis Board, the result of which was the Supreme Court’s establishment of the Indigent Defense Commission. Professor Fran Ansley is co-director of the UT Community Partnership Center, which matches the expertise of UT faculty with the needs of community groups in Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia. Professor Don Leatherman began a project with Knoxville Neighborhood Housing and Community Services to rebuild and invigorate economically depressed neighborhoods in Knoxville. Professor Carl Pierce has been recognized by the Children’s International Summer Villages for distinguished service to the cause of world peace and cross-cultural friendship. Dean Richard Wirtz is vice-chair of the Curriculum Committee of the American Bar Association’s Section on Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar and continues to serve on the Commission on the Future of the Tennessee Judicial System.

In Scholarship. It is impressive to take a course under a law professor who has—literally—written the book. The UT College of Law has several professors who hold this distinction. Active authors of legal texts and casebooks include Professor Joseph Cook, Constitutional Rights of the Accused, Criminal Procedure, Criminal Law, and with Associate Dean John Sobieski, Civil Rights Action; Professor Doug Blaze, The Law of Negligence in Arizona; Professor Jerry Phillips, casebooks on Torts and Products Liability; Professor Pat Hardin, The Developing Labor Law; Professor Joseph King, Law of Medical Malpractice; Professor Bob Lloyd, Secured Transactions; and Professor Amy Hess, successor author of The Law of Trusts and Trustees.

Professor Neil Cohen authored or co-authored Tennessee Law of Evidence, The Law of Probation and Parole, Rights of Prisoners, Problems in Substantive Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure: The Post-Investigative Process. If Professor Cohen isn’t around and you have a question about evidence, simply call one of the co-authors, Adjunct Professor Don Paine. Or call downtown to another of the co-authors, College of Law alumna Sarah Sheppard, who practices law in a Knoxville firm.

We haven’t stopped to count the other books, chapters, law review articles, essays, lectures, seminars, panel and individual presentations, and op-ed pieces published or delivered by our faculty. The number of works and breadth of topics is quite impressive. Here is sample of what our faculty have been doing and writing about. Professor Glenn Reynolds spoke at a Congressional seminar on “Space Policy for the 21st Century” in Washington, D.C., and has authored or co-authored numerous articles on law, science, and technology. Professor Pat Hardin concluded his year as secretary of the Labor and Employment Law Section of the American Bar Association by presenting a paper reviewing the decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court in the labor and employment field during the preceding term. Professors Reba Best and Cheryl Picquet co-authored The Insanity Defense: A Bibliographic Research Guide and compiled Computer Law and Software Protection: A Bibliography of Crime, Liability and Security. Professor Greg Stein, vice-chair of the Legal Education Committee of the American Bar Association’s Real Property, Probate and Trust Law section, wrote an article on “Hardhat Teaching” that was featured in a recent issue of The Law Teacher. And Professor Joseph King lectured on the topic of delayed diagnosis of breast cancer at a medical-legal conference sponsored by the Harvard Medical School.

The faculty is an interesting mix of personalities and experiences. We have professors who have spent most of their careers teaching and engaging in the kind of scholarly research that characterizes a distinguished law faculty. In addition, many professors have had experience in the legal world that awaits students after graduation. Look at some of our newest faculty members, for example—those who joined the College of Law faculty in 1994 and 1995. Professor Don Leatherman practiced with Arnold & Porter in Washington, D.C., and also with the Internal Revenue Service. Professor Tom Plank came to UT from the D.C. office of Kutak Rock, where he was a partner specializing in real estate, commercial finance, and securities. Previously, Professor Plank had clerked for the Chief Judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals and worked as an assistant attorney general for the State of Maryland. One of our newest faculty members, Professor Deseriee Kennedy, practiced with the highly-regarded law firm Bickel & Brewer in Dallas and the Philadelphia-based firm Pepper, Hamilton & Sheetz. Professor Kennedy also served as Assistant City Solicitor in Philadelphia. These experiences in the public and private sector enhance the ability of professors to relate to the varied interests of the students they teach.

Our faculty contribute their time and expertise in many ways and to diverse audiences. Their efforts enhance the value of the legal education our students receive.

L

Carol Parker
Associate Professor of Law and Director of Legal Writing
B.S., 1975, and M.A., 1975, Northwestern University
J.D., 1984, University of Illinois

Lawyers are professional communicators, and often they communicate in writing. Learning to produce effective legal writing incorporates all aspects of a legal education and continues throughout a lawyer’s career. To help students develop this essential lawyering skill, UT’s writing program provides them with a repertoire of writing experiences. In required and elective courses, students create documents that give advice, present arguments, and specify the terms of agreements or legislation. Students also develop an understanding of the purposes and audiences those documents serve and the context in which they are created. In addition to producing professional-quality documents, students learn ways to use writing to clarify their thinking and develop sensitivity to the rhetorical choices lawyers must make in deciding how best to represent their clients.”

Excellent legal resource materials are available to students, faculty, practicing attorneys, and judges in the College of Law Library. The Law Library contains the official court reports, session laws, and codes of all states and of the federal system. The collection includes the complete National Reporter System (which covers all reported state and federal decisions), the Annotated Reports, standard sets of miscellaneous reports, all English-language legal periodicals, and the reports of Canadian cases and of English cases from the early English law to date. In addition, there are encyclopedias, digests and dictionaries, standard textbooks, and current loose-leaf services, totaling together more than 403,475 volumes and microform volume equivalents. The Law Library is also a selective depository for federal documents. Law students also have the use of the University’s Main Library, located only a few blocks away.

The Law Library contains two computer laboratories. Through these laboratories the Law Library is able to offer UT law students the newest software tools to assist them in their learning process and perfecting their legal drafting skills. The computers in these labs also allow students to access the WESTLAW and LEXIS legal database retrieval services. The computers in both laboratories are networked, allowing for easy access to the Internet, the World Wide Web, and E-mail accounts for each law student. In conjunction with the network, the Law Library will be providing access to numerous CD-ROM research products, including Michie Tennessee Law on Disk, the WilsonLine Index to Legal Periodicals, and the LegalTrak Current Law Index. Access to the collections of the Law Library is provided through an online catalog which is also available on the network.

Recruiting and hiring practices in the legal job market require that making career decisions be an ongoing, developmental process that begins in the first year of law school and continues through graduation. Career Services can help you acquire the skills and knowledge necessary for a successful job search and provide you with information on the many professional areas in which a law degree can be used.

The office hosts small-group orientation sessions beginning in November to familiarize first-year students with the Career Services staff and the variety of services that are offered, including:

- career fairs and speaker programs highlighting various areas of legal practice;
- workshops on résumés and cover-letter writing; and
- individual counseling on career-building strategies, specific to your needs.

Students also have the opportunity to learn about and meet legal recruiters who hire summer and year-round clerks and fill entry-level positions. On-campus interviews are conducted each fall and spring semester in the Career Services suite by law firms, government agencies, and public-interest organizations. Students may also choose to participate in several off-campus job conferences, including the Patent Law Interview Program in Chicago; the Southeastern Minority Job Fair and the Southeastern Law Placement Consortium, both in Atlanta; the Mid-South Law Placement Consortium in Nashville; and the National Association for Public Interest Law Careers Fair in Washington, D.C.

Career Services houses a resource library of more than 200 books, videos, and other materials to help you identify career goals and the best routes to reach them. For your use in contacting employers directly, the office maintains databases and directories with address, telecommunications, and hiring contact information. Career Services also has an "alumni network" of more than 100 University of Tennessee College of Law graduates in locations around the country who will personally assist students in their career-building efforts through informational interviews.

Employment statistics for UT College of Law graduates have remained consistent over the last decade at 90 percent employed within nine months of graduation, according to annual surveys compiled for the National Association for Law Placement. UT's percentage continually approximates or surpasses national rates for legal employment of recent graduates. Of those seeking employment, more than 80 percent of each graduating class since 1989 has accepted full-time legal employment, most often in private practice positions with law firms. Federal, state, and local government agencies have been the second largest employer of our graduates, who work as judicial clerks, prosecutors, public defenders, and in the military. The remaining members of each class accepted their first positions in business and industry, public interest, and academic positions.

While the majority of the college's graduates practice law in Tennessee, alumni are found in 49 states and 10 foreign countries. In addition to traditional legal careers as attorneys, prosecutors and judges, UT alumni work in a wide range of non-legal careers. Tennessee graduates have forged successful careers in such areas as corporate management, medicine, entrepreneurial enterprises, public service and government, teaching, and educational administration.

The College of Law's Office of Career Services is located in Aconda Court, Room 216, and is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. If you plan to visit the College of Law, please include Career Services as a point of interest on your tour.

PRIVILEGES

Students in the College of Law have the same privileges and responsibilities and are subject to the same regulations as other University students.

SAFETY

As on most campuses, safety is an important issue for all students. Here are three services that reflect the interest of the University in the safety of its students:

The Escort Service transports individual students to and from locations on campus and in Fort Sanders (the adjoining neighborhood) after dark. The service is free and available to law students with a student ID card;

Emergency Phones. Forty conspicuous emergency phones are located around campus and can be used to contact the University Police Department quickly in an emergency;

Programs in safety and self-defense. The University Police Department offers workshops in safety and self-defense for students.

We hope you never need these services, but safety should be a concern as you choose a campus. The law school building is located on a major thoroughfare, Cumberland Avenue, and is within safe walking distance of parking, restaurants, and other conveniences.

MINORITY STUDENT AFFAIRS/BLACK CULTURAL CENTER

The Office of Minority Student Affairs is housed in the Black Cultural Center near the College of Law. The Office and the Center serve as a link between the University and the minority student population and are designed to enhance the quality of life for minority students. Working in conjunction with other campus and community groups, the Office provides academic, educational, social and cultural programs and information of interest to African-American students.

DISABLED STUDENT SERVICES

Requests for accommodations should be made through the Office of the Associate Dean for Student Affairs of the College of Law, 201 Aconda Court, Knoxville, TN 37996-4070, (423) 974-6790. The College of Law works in cooperation with the University of Tennessee’s Office of Disability Services, 414 Student Services Building, Knoxville, TN 37996, (423) 974-6087.

HOUSING AND DINING

The Office of Rental Properties in South Stadium Hall administers several off-campus apartment complexes which are available to single and married students. Seven apartment complexes, all located within a five-mile radius of the main campus, provide nearly 2,000 housing units. Space is limited, so interested applicants are encouraged to contact the Office of Rental Properties, 474 South Stadium Hall, Knoxville, Tennessee 37996, or call (423) 974-3431, as soon as they are admitted.

The Off-Campus Housing Office in the University Center assists students seeking non-University rental property by providing listings of available units. Contact the Off-Campus Housing Office directly by calling (423) 974-5276 or by writing to 336 University Center, Knoxville, Tennessee 37996. The College of Law Admissions Office provides information each spring to help them better understand the housing market in Knoxville.

Major University dining facilities are located in the University Center, across Cumberland Avenue from the College of Law, and at Strong Hall, one-half block from the College of Law. Cumberland Avenue, commonly called "The Strip," is home to almost every type of restaurant.

PARKING AND TRANSPORTATION

The University of Tennessee is similar to most large campuses in that parking close to one's classes is severely limited. Large student parking areas are located on the campus perimeter and free bus service is available from these lots to the main campus.

CULTURAL PROGRAMMING AND ENTERTAINMENT

Law students may take advantage of the vast array of activities available on campus: museums, art galleries, popular and classical music recitals, films, exhibits, lectures, and other forms of entertainment.

SPORTS AND RECREATION

A wide range of recreational resources is available, including indoor and outdoor Olympic-size pools, a complete conditioning facility, a physical education complex with courts for all racquet sports, and outdoor facilities for tennis, softball, racquetball and running. Aerobics, step aerobics, and other fitness classes are available free of charge. College of Law teams are very competitive in the University's diverse intramural athletics program.

HEALTH SERVICES

Health services provided by the University are available to any student who has paid the University Programs and Services Fee. These outpatient services are available continuously throughout every term.

The Health Service Office has a regular staff of primary-care physicians, nurses, and laboratory and X-ray technicians. Outpatient services in general practice and psychiatry are available full-time. Specialty consultants in dermatology, surgery, and gynecology are available on campus through referral by a staff physician. Referral to other specialists can be arranged at the student's expense. Those students requiring allergy injections may arrange to receive them at the UT clinic.

Most medical services at the campus clinic are provided to eligible students at no additional cost. The primary clinic at 1818 Andy Holt Avenue maintains scheduled daytime hours Monday through Friday. Emergency care during evenings and weekends is also available through the Emergency Room Student Health Clinic at the University of Tennessee Memorial Hospital, except during the breaks after summer and fall terms. Ambulance and transportation service can be arranged through University Police at minimal cost.

Health Services personnel will cooperate with students and family physicians in ensuring continuity of quality health care during each student's university career.

UNIVERSITY CENTER

Directly across from the College of Law is the Carolyn Brown Memorial University Center. Law students are invited to use all the facilities of this central University meeting site. The UC contains a post office, a travel agency, two cafeterias and a grill, a computer store, a book and supply store, lounges, meeting areas, a bowling alley, and a video game room.
The Academic Program

DOCTOR OF JURISPRUDENCE DEGREE

The curriculum leading to the Doctor of Jurisprudence (J.D.) degree prepares students for the practice of law. The College of Law curriculum combines training in substantive law, legal procedure, ethics, and professionalism, with particular emphasis on analysis and reasoning, research, problem solving, writing, planning and drafting, advocacy, and dispute resolution.

BASIC FACTS

The J.D. program is a full-time, three-year academic program, although students have up to five years to complete degree requirements. A new class of 150-160 students is admitted each fall semester only. The College of Law does not have part-time or evening programs. Eighty-nine semester hours of credit are required for the J.D. degree. A student may not be employed more than 20 hours per week while enrolled as a full-time student. Students are required to abide by all academic policies outlined in the College of Law Catalog and Student Handbook.

A typical class load is approximately 30 hours per academic year, accomplished in two semesters. Students may choose to attend summer semester classes.

GETTING STARTED RIGHT

During the first week of fall semester, beginning law students are given the opportunity to meet their classmates, other law students, student advisors, and the faculty in several different social settings and events sponsored by the law school. In addition, students are provided with essential background information on the study of law in two mini-courses on the Civil Litigation Process and Case Analysis and Briefing. Finally, new law students learn what orientation is all about when they take their first law school classes in Contracts, Criminal Law, and Torts.

DESCRIPTIONS OF REQUIRED COURSES

In Contracts I students begin the study of the basic agreement process and the legal protection afforded contractual relationships. Topics to be covered include the offer and acceptance of the contract, consideration and other bases for enforcing promises, the Statute of Frauds, and unconscionability and other controls on promissory liability. Contracts II emphasizes issues arising after formation of the contract: interpretation, the duty of good faith, conditions, impracticability and frustration of purpose, remedies, third-party beneficiaries, and assignment and delegation. Article 2 of the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC) is covered with respect to remedies, anticipatory repudiation, impracticability, and good faith.

Civil Procedure I introduces the rules and principles governing procedure in civil litigation. Topics to be covered include the binding effects of judgments, jurisdiction and venue (selecting the proper court), how to determine applicable law, and federal and state practice. Civil Procedure II introduces the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and includes topics such as pleading, joinder of claims and parties, discovery, trials, verdicts, judgments, and appeals.

Legal Process I introduces students to the use of cases and statutes in prediction and persuasion. Students will focus on the analysis and synthesis of common law decisions, statutory interpretations and the fundamentals of legal writing and legal research. In Legal Process II students explore more formal legal writing, appellate procedure, and oral advocacy.

Torts involves liability for injury to individuals. Topics to be covered in Torts I include: intentional torts, defenses and privileges related to intentional torts; negligence (including the standard of care, professional malpractice, and liability of owners and occupiers of land); defenses based on the plaintiff's conduct (including contributory and comparative negligence, assumption of risk, failure to take precautions, and avoidable consequences); causation, proximate cause; duty rules; and questions of joint and several or several liability. In Torts II, students explore vicarious liability and related concepts; strict liability for dangerous animals and abnormally dangerous activities; products liability; nuisance, defamation and invasion of privacy; economic torts (including misrepresentation and interference with contract and prospective opportunities); and immunities (including those of the government, governmental employees, charities and family members, and damages).

Criminal Law covers the substantive aspects of criminal law, including general principles applicable to all criminal conduct and the specific analysis of particular crimes and defenses to those crimes.

Property introduces students to issues of ownership, possession, and title in the areas of landlord-tenant relations; estates in land and future interests; co-ownership and marital property; real estate sales agreements and conveyances; title assurance and recording statutes; servitudes; and selected aspects of nuisance law, eminent domain, and zoning.

Constitutional Law I examines the structural provisions of the Constitution of the United States, including judicial review and limits to judicial power, national legislative power, state and federal regulation of commerce, power to tax and spend, separation of powers, state taxation, and intergovernmental immunities.

Legal Profession includes the study of the legal, professional, and ethical standards applicable to lawyers.

OTHER REQUIREMENTS

Students must satisfy the following requirements at some time prior to graduation:

- Advanced Constitutional Law
- Perspective Course
- Expository Writing
- Planning and Drafting
- Interviewing, Counseling, and Dispute Resolution

These requirements may be met through successful completion of any of a number of elective courses. The requirements reflect the faculty's conviction that each student should develop both essential lawyering skills and the ability to view law and the legal system in broad perspective.

ELECTIVE COURSES

Second- and third-year students may choose from over 75 upper-division elective courses. However, not all elective courses may be offered during the two years in which electives may be taken. Full course descriptions are available in the College of Law Catalog and Student Handbook.

Mary A. Parker, '77
Partner, Parker, Allen & Crofford,
Nashville, Tennessee
1994-95 President, Trial Lawyers for Public Justice

While a law student enrolled in a clinical course, I was assigned a criminal case and was responsible for handling the preliminary hearing of a case that was featured in the daily newspaper for a week. I walked into a full courtroom, after having worked through news media to get there, and was absolutely mesmerized by the excitement of putting on a case in that atmosphere. The direction of my legal career did a ninety-degree turn that day and, to this day, I believe that being the voice of the victim who cannot speak for himself or herself is the most exciting thing one can do as a lawyer. The clinical programs at UT College of Law directed me to, and prepared me for, a career as a trial lawyer."

Course Offerings Subject to Change

The necessity of adjustments to accommodate changing conditions may dictate modifications in the course offerings and other features of the program described above. Accordingly, the College of Law reserves the right to make such variation in its program as circumstances may require. Prospective students who are interested in the precise course offerings at a given time or who desire other special information should make inquiry in advance.

FOCUSING YOUR STUDIES: OPTIONAL CONCENTRATIONS

Second- and third-year students broaden their base of substantive knowledge and skills by choosing from an array of elective courses to supplement the second-year required courses. Second- and third-year students may choose elective courses in one of two areas of emphasis, Advocacy and Dispute Resolution or Business Transactions, or they can follow the traditional course of choosing from the array of elective courses available to build an academic program consistent with their personal and professional needs and interests.

Business Transactions Concentration

Since much of the future growth in legal jobs, both in Tennessee and across the nation, appears likely to occur in the representation of small and intermediate-sized businesses, the Business Transactions curriculum will allow second- and third-year students to concentrate their studies on the legal aspects of the conduct of public, private, and non-profit enterprises, emphasizing the needs of business concerns both large and small in scope. Following this course of study will help students develop competence in the kinds of transactional matters lawyers handle daily, such as working with clients in planning and carrying out business transactions, drafting and negotiating documents, and counseling clients about compliance with laws and regulations.

The curriculum will provide a rich educational opportunity for those students who choose to prepare for practice in this field. Three core courses (Introduction to Business Transactions, Contract Drafting Seminar, and Representing Enterprises) complement the additional requirements of Business Associations, Taxation of Entities, Land Finance Law and Commercial Law. Students who complete the requirements of the business transactions concentration will be acknowledged as having completed the J.D. degree with a concentration in Business Transactions.

Concentration in Advocacy and Dispute Resolution

Building on the College's long standing clinical programs, its strong basic curriculum in trial and appellate advocacy, and its successful moot court programs, this course of study allows students to focus their second- and third-year experience on preparation for a career in advocacy and dispute resolution.
Skills emphasized include “litigation,” or trial skills, and the skills required for effective negotiation, mediation, and other techniques for resolving disputes without trials. Central to the development of this curriculum is the extensive use of advanced teaching technology that will be available in the new law building, ranging from conventional and interactive video to computer-assisted instruction.

LEARNING BY DOING: THE CLINICAL PROGRAMS

For almost 50 years, the College of Law has provided law students with opportunities to “learn by actually doing”—representing actual clients and/or helping resolve actual disputes. The College of Law Legal Clinic functions as a large law office in which third-year students practice professional skills learned in law school. Students work together in teams under the supervision of clinic faculty.

Civil Advocacy Clinic

The Civil Advocacy Clinic is divided into three practice groups: housing, employment, and homeless persons advocacy. In the housing group, students represent clients facing eviction or living in substandard housing in court and before administrative agencies. In the employment group, clinic students handle contested adversarial hearings on behalf of unemployment claimants. Students in the homeless group serve homeless or near-homeless clients on various matters.

Criminal Advocacy Clinic

Criminal Advocacy Clinic students are responsible for all aspects of criminal cases from arraignment to sentencing and post-trial motions. Students handle misdemeanor charges primarily, although felony cases are also handled regularly. Students represent individuals accused of crimes, interview cooperative and recalcitrant witnesses, research the law, negotiate with prosecutors, draft and argue motions, and handle contested court hearings. All are real cases with real consequences.

Mediation Clinic

Mediation is a process of conflict resolution in which an impartial third party helps people in a dispute resolve their differences by agreement. Increasingly, attorneys are called upon to use mediation skills in their practice. In the Mediation Clinic, students receive extensive training in mediation techniques, then work in pairs to mediate lower court civil and misdemeanor criminal cases in Knoxville courts.

Other Volunteer Opportunities

Students at the College of Law have also established volunteer or pro bono programs that provide excellent opportunities for hands-on experience in lawyering. The Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program, for example, puts law students and accounting students in contact with needy individuals in the Knoxville community to provide assistance completing tax forms.

Students can participate in the Pro Bono Project in conjunction with the Knoxville Legal Aid Society (KLAS). Students are teamed with local attorneys who have accepted cases through the KLAS Volunteer Legal Assistance Program.

DUAL DEGREE PROGRAMS

The UT College of Law offers dual degree programs in law and business and in law and public administration.

J.D./M.B.A. PROGRAM

The College of Business Administration and the College of Law offer a coordinated dual degree program leading to the conferral of both the Doctor of Jurisprudence and the Master of Business Administration degrees. A student enrolled in the dual degree program is permitted to take fewer hours of course work than would be required if the two degrees were earned separately. Candidates must satisfy the graduation requirements of each college.

Applicants must make separate application to both programs and be competitively and independently accepted by the College of Law for the J.D. degree, by the Graduate School and the College of Business Administration for the M.B.A. program, and by the Dual Degree Committee.

During the first two years of the dual degree program, students will spend one academic year completing the first year of the College of Law curriculum and one year taking courses in the M.B.A. program.

Potential applicants for the J.D./M.B.A. program are invited to request additional information about the joint program from the contact person identified on page 38 of this publication.

J.D./M.P.A. PROGRAM

The College of Law and the Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences offer a coordinated program leading to the conferral of both the Doctor of Jurisprudence and the Master of Public Administration degrees. Students in this dual degree program can earn both degrees in four years rather than the five years that otherwise would be required for the degrees.

Applicants must make separate application to and be independently accepted by the College of Law for the J.D. degree, the Department of Political Science and the Graduate School for the M.P.A. degree, and by the Dual Degree Committee.

During the first two years of the dual degree program, students will spend one academic year completing the first year of the College of Law curriculum and one year taking courses in the M.P.A. program.

Potential applicants for the J.D./M.P.A. program are invited to request additional information about the joint program from the contact person identified on page 38 of this publication.
Financing Your Legal Education

TUITION AND FEES

The value of your legal education at the University of Tennessee College of Law compares very favorably with that available at other state-supported and private institutions.

University tuition and fees are determined by the Board of Trustees and are subject to change each year. The estimated costs for the 1996–97 academic year (fall and spring semesters) are as follows:

- For Tennessee Resident Students: $3,662
- For Out-Of-State Students: $9,218

ESTIMATED TOTAL EXPENSES

Estimated living expenses for the 1996–97 academic year are outlined below to give you an idea of the total cost of attending the University of Tennessee College of Law. Applicants may obtain exact costs from the Admissions Office of the College of Law when the costs are confirmed by the University.

APPLICATION FEE

There is a non-refundable $15 Application Fee payable at the time of application.

SEAT DEPOSIT

All applicants admitted to the College of Law who advise us that they plan to enroll in the fall must pay a non-refundable $250 seat deposit to reserve a place in the entering class. The deposit must be paid before July 1, 1997. The amount of the deposit will be credited toward the Fall Semester 1997 fees.

APPLYING FOR FINANCIAL AID

LOANS

Loans are available for both incoming and currently-enrolled students. Three types of loans are available under the Federal Student Loan Program: Federal Perkins Loans ($3,000 per academic year), Federal Subsidized Stafford Loans ($8,500 per academic year) and Federal Unsubsidized Stafford Loans ($18,500 per academic year).

The Perkins and Subsidized Stafford Loans are need-based loans while the Unsubsidized Stafford Loans combined cannot exceed $18,500 per academic year. To be eligible for consideration for any and all of these loans, students must submit a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), have financial aid transcripts forwarded to the Financial Aid Office from all colleges attended, and submit a UTK Financial Aid Application. Students who do not complete the FAFSA are eligible to apply for private loans made available by Law Access and private loans made available by Law Access and the Alan Novak Emergency Loan Association. Applicants may obtain exact costs from the Admissions Office.

RESEARCH ASSISTANTSHIPS

Qualified law students may apply for research positions with law faculty to supplement their incomes through legal research and writing.

WORK STUDY

The University administers work-study positions under the federal College Work Study Program. Requests for applications should be directed to the University’s Financial Aid Office.

FELLOWSHIPS

The W. K. McClure Fund for the Study of World Affairs was established in 1968 at the University of Tennessee by Wallace McClure, a graduate of the University of Tennessee, and the Trustees of the William Kyle McClure Foundation. Each year, the Fund offers a fellowship competition coordinated for the University by the Center for International Education.

Designed to recognize outstanding academic achievement and to support further study, the fellowships consist of cash grants which can be used either in the U.S. or abroad.

The purpose of the W.K. McClure Fund for the Study of World Affairs is to enhance and promote education for world responsibility. Initially conceived to heighten expertise in the area of international law, the program has been broadened to include any study proposal which could “increase world understanding and reduce international conflict.” The fellowship provides a stipend of $600 to $2,000. Application forms are available at the Center for International Education, 1620 Melrose Avenue.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Scholarships administered by the College of Law are awarded once every academic year. The determination of first-year recipients is made as early as possible each spring for the following academic year. The awards are payable in installments beginning with fall semester and ending with spring semester.
Scholarships will be awarded only to students who take at least twelve (12) credit hours each term. If a student who has been awarded a scholarship takes fewer than twelve (12) credit hours in a given term, the scholarship may be subject to reduction or cancellation by the Scholarship Committee.

Financial aid information will be mailed from the College of Law Admissions Office as soon as it becomes available. Students must submit a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) to the appropriate offices by FEBRUARY 14 to receive priority consideration for College of Law scholarships. Students need not apply for most scholarships; financial aid applicants will automatically be considered for all scholarships for which they are eligible.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE TO APPLY?

A candidate for admission must hold a baccalaureate degree from an accredited four-year institution by the time the candidate begins study at the College of Law. Each applicant must have taken the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT) within the past five years.

PREPARING FOR LAW SCHOOL

The College of Law does not require applicants to specialize in any particular academic major or subject areas closely related to law during their undergraduate education. However, potential applicants should choose courses that will enhance their abilities in the areas of critical thinking, oral and written expression, and logical and analytical reasoning. Individuals considering law school in the future are encouraged to enroll in a broad range of courses that will help develop these skills.

OUR ADMISSION CRITERIA

Admission to the University of Tennessee College of Law is competitive. Each year the Admissions Committee selects the entering class from a large number of candidates.

In making selections, the Admissions Committee places substantial emphasis on the undergraduate grade point average (UGPA) and the Law School Admission Test (LSAT) score. Undergraduate academic performance is a significant indicator of potential success both as a measure of general ability and as an indication of factors that will hold one in good stead in law school—motivation, persistence, organizational skills and work ethic. Similarly, the LSAT is designed to measure some of the qualities that are needed for successful law study. Although no single factor standing alone can predict with absolute certainty the ability to succeed in law school, members of the Admissions Committee have judged that the LSAT score, when combined with other assessments, is very helpful as a starting point in making comparisons among applicants for admission.

To incorporate these factors, an Admissions Index is calculated for each applicant using the following formula: (13 x UGPA) + LSAT score = Admissions Index, or Index. In calculating the Index the Committee uses only the applicant’s UGPA from all work attempted toward the first undergraduate degree earned.

You might find these statistics helpful. The 1995 entering class was composed of 167 students: 87 male and 80 female. The median UGPA for the class was 3.46. The median LSAT score of this group was 156. The students’ ages ranged from 21 to 52, with the average age being 25.

Every application file is read in full by at least one, and sometimes more, members of the Admissions Committee, no matter how high or low the applicant’s Index is. And while the UGPA and LSAT score are undeniably important elements, the Admissions Committee also considers a variety of other factors when evaluating applicants for admission. These factors are not given a specific weight that is applied to the Index; rather, the Admissions Committee considers these factors in its review and evaluation of the applicant’s file. In making these judgments, the Admissions Committee relies heavily upon information submitted by the applicant as well as on recommendations. The Admissions Committee will not admit an applicant unless there is high probability, based on its evaluation of the application, that the applicant will succeed as a law student and as a practicing attorney.

AMONG THE FACTORS CONSIDERED ARE:

Academic factors, such as improvement in undergraduate grades, strength of the undergraduate institution, difficulty of the academic discipline pursued, and success in graduate or professional studies;

Employment, both while enrolled as an undergraduate and since the undergraduate experience (including military service);

Activities and service, including extracurricular activities, honors in college, community, civic or professional service, demonstrated leadership abilities, exceptional talents, and other accomplishments;

Economic, social or cultural background, and success in overcoming social or economic disadvantages;

Evidence of maturity, responsibility and motivation; and

Circumstances that may have affected an applicant’s UGPA or LSAT score, including illness, disabilities, and work or family responsibilities.

The College of Law also realizes its obligation to assure meaningful access to a legal education to qualified applicants who are members of groups that historically have been under-represented in the legal profession. Consequently, special consideration may be given to members of such groups whose applications suggest that they will make successful law students and lawyers. The successful completion of programs such as the Tennessee Pre-Professional Fellowship Program (TPFP) and the Council on Legal Educational Opportunity (CLEO) Summer Institute or similar programs may be favorably considered by the Admissions Committee.

As a state-supported institution, the College of Law has a primary responsibility to offer opportunities for the study of law to qualified Tennessee residents. Traditionally, Tennessee residents account for approximately 80 percent of the student body. While the College of Law will actively continue to seek a proportion of out-of-state students, the Admissions Committee also will continue to give priority to Tennessee residents.

The University of Tennessee and the College of Law do not discriminate based on race, sex, color, religion, national origin, age, disability, or veteran status in provision of educational opportunities or activities.

This is also your opportunity to provide information that pertains to the admissions criteria established by the Admissions Committee. Please do not exceed 500 words or combine the Personal Statement with the Essay.

Essay. Your Essay should discuss for the Admissions Committee the experience that you consider to be one of the most important learning experiences you have had in the past 10 years. Please limit your Essay to no more than 500 words.

Application Fee

A non-refundable $15 application fee must accompany the Application Form and Writing Samples. Please make your check or money order payable to The University of Tennessee. We cannot accept cash or credit cards.

Please send the completed Application Form, both Writing Samples, and the Application Fee to the Admissions Office together. You can speed consideration of your application by sending these required materials at the same time.

The Law School Data Assembly Service Report

The College of Law, like most other law schools, requires its applicants to take the LSAT examination and to subscribe to the Law School Data Assembly Service (LSDAS). Upon the request of the Admissions Office, the LSDAS sends a report, which includes your LSAT score and writing sample, copies of all academic transcripts, and a summary of all undergraduate grades, directly to the Admissions Office. For complete information about this process, please refer to the LSAT/LSDAS Information and Registration Book.

Keep in mind that the Admissions Office will not request this report until we have received your Application Form and accompanying materials. Realize that it can take several weeks for your application to become complete after your Application Form and accompanying materials reach us. It is your responsibility to mail your Application Form well before the February 1 priority deadline so that we can order and receive your LSDAS report in time for full consideration by the Admissions Committee.

The LSAT/LSDAS Information and Registration Book is available at most undergraduate schools and law schools or may be obtained directly from Law Services at:

Two Recommendations

The College of Law requires two original recommendations as part of the selection process. These recommendations should be written by people who have known you long enough and well enough to make a sound evaluation of your intelligence, industry, character, motivation, and aptitude for the study of law. Recommendations from individuals who can judge your academic abilities are usually most helpful to the Admissions Committee. If you have been out of school and in the workplace for a number of years, you may find employers or clients to be your best sources.

Please select your recommenders early, supply them with a Recommendation Form, and be sure to advise them to return the Recommendation Form, with a return address, to the Admissions Office before February 1. Recommenders may attach a letter on their letterhead with the Recommendation Form. Additional letters of recommendation are discouraged. Your application will be complete with two recommendations.
INTERVIEWS AND CAMPUS VISITS

The Admissions Office does not conduct interviews for the purpose of evaluating applicants for admission. Applicants are encouraged, however, to visit the College of Law during the fall or spring semester to visit a class, speak with current students, and learn more about the College of Law. Please call the Admissions Office to schedule a visit.

REACTIVATION OF THE APPLICATION FROM THE IMMEDIATELY PRECEDING YEAR

Applicants who wish to reactivate their application for admission from the immediately preceding year should request reactivation of the file in writing well before the February 1 priority deadline. The applicant is encouraged to update the file with information about employment, graduate study, or other information pertinent to the admissions criteria for consideration by the Admissions Committee. Additional materials submitted, such as an updated Application Form and recommendations, will be added to the original file. No materials will be substituted for the original materials; rather, the additional materials will be considered as supplementary information. Candidates who applied in the immediately preceding year do not need to submit an additional Application Fee.

If the applicant does not have a current subscription with LSDAS, the most current LSDAS report available will be acceptable, provided that the LSAT score is no more than five years old. If you have retaken the LSAT examination since you last applied, it is your responsibility to notify the Admissions Office at the time you request reactivation of your file. The Admissions Office will then request an updated LSDAS report for your file.

Individuals who wish to reapply after more than one year may not reactivate an old application. New original application materials must be submitted.

TRANSFER STUDENTS

Admission as a transfer student with advanced standing is competitive. Individuals who wish to enter the Law College as transfer students must be in good standing at a law school accredited by the American Bar Association (ABA). In evaluating transfer applications, the Admissions Committee will consider the applicant’s undergraduate and law school grade point averages, LSAT score, undergraduate and law school records, the reason for seeking to transfer, and all other factors that are used in making admission decisions.

To apply for admission with advanced standing, a student should submit a completed Application Form, the $15 application fee, an LSDAS report, two (2) letters of recommendation (one of which should be from a law faculty member), an official law school transcript, a letter of good standing (with an indication of class rank) from your current law school Dean, a copy of the official catalog from your current law school, a personal statement and an essay, and a letter indicating the reason for seeking a transfer. Transfer students may be admitted at the beginning of any term. The deadlines to apply for admission as a transfer student are as follows:

Fall Term: July 1
Spring Term: November 15
Summer Term: April 15

Transfer decisions will be made as soon after the deadline as practicable. Transfer students may receive up to 31 semester hours of credit for work successfully completed at the previously attended law school. A total of at least 58 credits must be completed at the University of Tennessee College of Law.

VISITING STUDENTS

A student who is in good standing at a law school accredited by the ABA may take courses at the College of Law on a non-degree basis with the permission of the Dean or the Dean’s designee. Written approval from the Dean or Registrar at the visiting student’s law school must be submitted to the Admissions Office.

To apply for admission as a visiting student, an applicant must submit a completed Application Form accompanied by the $15 application fee, a letter of good standing from your current law school, a letter of authorization to take courses at the College of Law, specification of any limitation on courses that may be taken, an LSDAS summary from the law school attended, a personal statement and essay, and an official law school transcript. The application deadlines for transfer applicants apply to visiting students.
