The CFB will also begin producing a newsletter bi-annually starting in the spring 2011. Dr. Hall asked Mary Papke to discuss the HERS Institutes (e.g., Bryn Mawr, Wellesley, Colorado). These training programs are specifically designed to prepare women in higher education to take on more advanced leadership roles. The CFW application deadline was November 12, 2010. Dr. Hall invited discussion on developing effective mentoring programs for Black faculty, staff, and students. Several ideas were communicated including the need to define what it is to be a mentor, best practices in mentoring, the need to create events in which mentors/mentees can attend together, and clearly communicated requirements regarding commitment of time from mentor and relationship responsibilities on the part of both mentor and mentee.
