The University of Tennessee College of Law has been educating lawyers for more than 100 years. And while the practice of law and curriculum have changed since 1890, the fundamental tasks — "the development of skills, the nurture of intellect and the molding of character" — remain the same.

Students receive training in substantive law, procedure, ethics and professionalism, with a particular emphasis placed on analysis and reasoning, problem-solving, research, writing, advocacy, and dispute resolution.

Second- and third-year students may follow the traditional path of choosing from an array of elective courses to build an academic program consistent with their personal and professional needs and interests — or participate in one of the College’s innovative new programs that provides specialized training.

Students who pursue the Concentration in Business Transactions concentrate their studies on the legal aspects surrounding the conduct of public, private and non-profit enterprises, emphasizing the needs of business concerns both large and small. Three core courses — Introduction to Business Transactions, Contract Drafting Seminar and Representing Enterprises — complement the additional requirements of Business Associations, Taxation of Entities, Land Finance Law, and Commercial Law.

The Concentration in Advocacy and Dispute Resolution was built on the College’s long-standing clinical programs, curriculum in trial and appellate advocacy, and successful moot court programs. It emphasizes litigation skills, as well as those required for effective negotiation, mediation and dispute resolution. Central to the development of this curriculum is the extensive use of advanced teaching technology that is available in the new College of Law building.

Completed in 1997, the 110,000-square-foot facility blends the old with the new and offers the latest in technological innovations, such as power outlets and networking hook-ups for students' lap top computers at classroom seats; two microcomputer laboratories for student use; an on-line, automated catalog system for the law library; and computer-assisted instruction capabilities.

The College continues to make a name for itself on the national level, having been ranked in the top 50 law schools in the country by U.S. News and World Report in 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999 and 2000. The College also was honored in 1996 with the Emil Gumpert Award for Excellence in Teaching Trial Advocacy from the American College of Trial Lawyers.

Other measures of success include Tennessee bar exam passage rates that are consistently above the state average for all graduates, and employment statistics that show more than 85 percent of recent graduates accepting full-time legal positions within nine months of graduation.

As the UT College of Law finds itself ready to take advantage of everything the 21st century has to offer, we reaffirm our mission set forth 100 years ago: to provide a first-rate, professional education to all students; to contribute significantly to the body of legal scholarship; and to render worthy service to the university, the bench and bar, and the public.

PRINCIPLES AND STANDARDS FOR LAW PLACEMENT AND RECRUITING ACTIVITIES – CANDIDATES

A. Candidates should prepare thoroughly for the employment search process.

Before beginning an employment search, candidates should engage in thorough self-examination. Work skills, vocational aptitudes and interests, lifestyle and geographic preferences, academic performance, career expectations and life experiences should be carefully evaluated so that informed choices can be made. General instruction should be obtained on employment search skills, particularly those relating to the interview process. Prior to making employment inquiries, candidates should learn as much as possible about the target employers and the nature of their positions. Candidates should interview ONLY with employers with whom they have a genuine interest. Candidates should comply with the policies and procedures of law schools whose services they use.

B. Throughout the employment search process candidates should represent their qualifications and interests fully and accurately.

Candidates should be prepared to provide, at employers’ requests, copies of all academic transcripts. Under no circumstances should academic biographical data be falsified, misrepresented, or distorted either in writing or orally. Candidates who engage in such conduct may be subject to elimination from consideration for employment by the employer, suspension or other academic discipline by the law school, and disqualification from admission to practice by bar admission authorities. Candidates should be prepared to advise prospective employers of the nature and extent of the training in legal writing. Writing samples submitted as evidence of a candidate’s legal skills should be wholly original work. Where the writing was done with others, the candidate’s contribution should be clearly identified. Writing samples from law-related employment must be masked adequately to preserve client confidentiality and used only with the permission of the supervising attorney.

C. Throughout the employment search process students should conduct themselves in a professional manner.

Candidates who participate in the on-campus interview process should adhere to all scheduling requirements. Cancellations should occur only for good cause and should be promptly communicated to the office career services or the employer. Invitations for in-office (or call-back) interviews should be acknowledged promptly and accepted only if the candidate has a genuine interest in the employer. Candidates should reach an understanding with the employer regarding its reimbursement policies prior to the trip. Expenses for trips during which interviews with more than one employer occur should be prorated in accordance with those employers’ reimbursement policies. Candidates invited to interview at employer offices should request reimbursement for reasonable expenses that are directly related to the interview and incurred in good faith. Failure to observe this policy, or falsification or misrepresentation of travel expenses, may result in non-reimbursement and elimination from consideration for employment or the revocation of offers by an employer.

D. Candidates should notify employers and their office of career services of their acceptance or rejection of employment offers by the earliest possible time, and not later than the time established by rule, custom or agreement.

Candidates should expect offers to be confirmed in writing. Candidates should abide by the standards for student responses set out in “Part V” and should in any event notify the employer as soon as their decision is made, even if that decisions made in advance of the prevailing deadline date. In fairness to both employers and peers, students should act in good faith to decline promptly offers for interviews and employment which are not longer being seriously considered. In order for law schools to comply with federal and institutional reporting requirements, students should notify the office of career services upon acceptance of an employment offer, whether or not the employment was obtained through the office. Candidates seeking or preparing to accept fellowships, judicial clerkships, or other limited term professional employment should apprise prospective employers of their intentions and obtain a clear understanding of their offer deferral policies.

E. Candidates should honor their employment commitments.

Candidates should, upon acceptance of an offer of employment, notify their office of career services and notify all employers who consider them to be active candidates that they have accepted a position. If, because of extraordinary and unforeseen circumstances, it becomes necessary for a candidate to modify or be released from his or her acceptance, both the employer and the office of career services should be notified promptly.

F. Candidates should promptly report to the office of career services an misrepresentation, discrimination or other abuse by employers in the employment process.

In matters arising out of law-related employment, students should be guided by the standards for professional conduct which are applicable in the employer’s state. When acting on behalf of employers in a recruitment capacity, students should be guided by the employer principles in Part IV. Students should exercise care to provide representative and fair information when advising peers about former employers.

Class ranks are not available until approximately one month after the fall and spring semesters end; ranks are not calculated after summer school. Fall rankings usually are available the first of February and spring rankings the first of June. Information regarding grade point average and class rank is available from Career Services only if the student has a signed release on file. Employers who seek this information are encouraged to request class rank figures or a transcript directly from individual candidates.

A grade of 0.7 or below is a failure. To remain in good standing, a student must have maintained at least a 2.0 average. The Dean's List requires a class rank of the top one third or better.
GRADING SYSTEM

All academic work in the College through spring semester 1996 was graded on a 0.0 through 4.0 scale. Beginning fall 1996, the 0.0-4.0 grading scale was replaced by the following set of letter grades, numerical equivalents, and qualitative descriptions.

Principles and Standards for Law Placement and Recruiting Activities

To promote fair and ethical practices for the interviewing and decision-making process, the National Association for Law Placement (NALP) offers the following standards for the timing of offers and decisions.

A. GENERAL PROVISIONS
1. All offers to law students should remain open for at least two weeks after the date made, unless the offers are made pursuant to Paragraphs B and C below, in which case the later response date should apply.
2. Law students should reaffirm offers governed by Paragraphs B and C below within 30 days from the date of the offer letter. Employers may retract any offer that is not reaffirmed by the student.
3. Students are expected to accept or release offers or negotiate an extension of the response date by the applicable deadline.
4. After October 15, a student should not hold open more than 4 offers of employment simultaneously, including offers received as a result of previous summer employment. For each offer received that places a student over the four-offer limit, the student should, within one week of receipt of the excess offer, release an offer.
5. Second and third year students may, with the consent of the employer, extend one offer beyond December 1.
6. Employers should provide a copy of the student's offer letter to that student's career services office to assist that office in monitoring the number of offers a student is holding.
7. Employers having a total of 25 attorneys or fewer in all offices may be exempted from Paragraphs B and C below, but should leave offers open for a minimum of 2 weeks.
8. Employers offering part-time or temporary positions for the school term may be exempted from the requirements of Paragraphs B and C below.
9. Violations of these guidelines should be reported to the student's career services office.

B. FULL-TIME EMPLOYMENT PROVISIONS
1. Employers offering full-time positions following graduation to law students not previously employed by them should leave those offers open at least until December 1.
2. Employers making offers before September 15 of the student's third year for full-time positions following graduation to law students previously employed by them during any preceding summer should leave those offers open at least until November 1.
3. Employers making offers on or after September 15 of the student's third year for full-time employment following graduation to law students previously employed by them during any preceding summer should leave those offers open at least until December 1.
4. Employers offering part-time or temporary positions for the school term may be exempted from the requirements of Paragraphs B and C below.

C. SUMMER EMPLOYMENT PROVISIONS FOR 2LS & 3LS
1. Employers offering summer positions in the fall to law students not previously employed by them should leave those offers open at least until December 1.
2. Employers making offers before September 15 for a second summer clerkship to law students previously employed by them during any preceding summer should leave those offers open at least until November 1.
3. Employers making offers on or after September 15 for a second summer clerkship to law students previously employed by them during any preceding summer should leave those offers open at least until December 1.

D. SUMMER EMPLOYMENT PROVISIONS FOR 1LS
1. Law schools should not offer placement services to first semester, first year law students prior to November 1, except in the case of part-time students who may be given assistance in seeking positions during the school term.
2. Prospective employers and first year law students should not initiate contact with one another, and employers should not interview or make offers to first year students before December 1.
3. All offers to first year students for summer employment should remain open for at least two weeks after the date made.
