Greetings Faculty, Staff, Student Leaders, Community Members:

On behalf of the Black Issues Conference Planning Committee, the University of Tennessee Chapter of the NAACP, and the Office of Minority Student Affairs, we would like to invite you to participate in the 6th Annual Black Issues Conference, “Black in America: Honoring the Past, Enhancing Our Future.” The conference is designed to assist in the educational development of students through uniting the campus and community on issues that affect the Black Community as a whole. The conference is scheduled for Saturday, February 5, 2011, in the Carolyn P. Brown Memorial University Center from 8:30am – 4:30pm.

We are asking you as faculty, staff, student leaders, and community members to share in this experience by presenting on a topic of your choice during our workshop sessions. We are asking that you prepare a 45-50 minute presentation on an issue that the Black community is facing and how we can develop solutions to the problem. Some topics to think about include, but are not limited to:

- Affirmative Action
- Black, Ethnic and Racial Identity
- Black Interpersonal Relationships
- Bridging the Generational Gap of Leadership
- Community Restoration
- Creating Civility and Community on Campus
- Defining Black Leadership for the New Millennium
- Education & Our Community
- Health Issues in the Black Community
- Overcoming the Crab in the Barrel Effect
- Rethinking the Purpose of Organizations Created During the Civil Rights Era
- Spirituality in the Black Community
- Violence in the Community
- Today’s Hip Hop Culture
- Visions for Black Men/ Visions for Black Women

Please electronically submit your proposal and an outline of your program to the 6th Annual Black Issues Conference Planning Committee by January 14, 2011 to the following online submission system:

Thank you for your time and consideration. We hope that you will join us either as a presenter or as a conference attendee.

Sincerely,

The 6th Annual Black Issues Conference Planning Committee

Abstract

This interactive session will examine some of the historical foundations of African American identity; while challenging the perceptions and expectations of “acceptable behavior.” It will highlight cross-cultural examples both domestically and abroad. There will be a 30 minute presentation providing the background information and some implications of the issues. From there, participants will complete an activity that makes the issues more tangible and allows for conversation and process. The session will be wrapped up at the end with a debriefing session.

The presentation will examine three main areas:

- Exploring the foundations of racial identity
- Role of the media in shaping identity
- Cross-cultural prospects exploring what it means to be black in cultures abroad (enfocussed specifically in nations where they also the minority of the population. Examples: England, Nicaragua, etc)

Outputs Desired

Increased knowledge of the historical context of “acceptable behavior”
Increased knowledge of blacks in cultures abroad.
Questioning of the cultural status quo defining “blackness”
