Graduate Programs in Composition and Literature

The Program

Ball State University offers graduate programs in composition and literature leading to the M.A. and the Ph.D. Although students concentrate in either area, they are encouraged to explore the connections between the composing process, the history of rhetoric, literary theory, pedagogy, and various literary traditions. Students are actively mentored in the development of publication, teaching, and other professional skills.

The Stipends

Graduate and doctoral assistants in English receive competitive stipends and waivers of all tuition except for fees. Assistants participate in a variety of professional experiences: teaching composition, working with faculty members on research projects, supervising tutors, assisting in computer-aided instruction, and working in program administration. The Graduate School offers a limited number of service-free fellowships to outstanding candidates.

The University

A state-supported institution with a current enrollment of about 20,000 students, Ball State University first achieved eminence in teacher education. The Department of English features nationally recognized faculty, well-equipped computer and learning laboratories, and additional graduate concentrations in applied linguistics and TESOL.

Ball State University practices equal opportunity in education and employment and is strongly and actively committed to diversity within its community.

CALL FOR PAPERS

ENCOUNTER: Education for Meaning and Social Justice focuses on the education of the whole person as he/she seeks meaning in life and works for a better world. We accept articles on a wide range of topics; at the moment, we are especially interested in research, both quantitative and qualitative, on young people’s connection to nature and their pursuit of peace and social justice. Essays should be about 15 to 20 double-spaced pages long. For further information, please write to Bill Crain, Editor, Encounter, The City College of New York, 138th St. and Convent Ave., New York, NY 10031. Phone 212 650 5650. E-mail <Billcrain@aol.com>.
